

PUBLICATIONS

Employees of the Board of Education who develop instructional materials, author textbooks, computer software, articles of other publications shall not benefit financially should such materials, textbooks, computer software, or articles be purchased for use in the Yonkers Public Schools. Additionally, instructional materials, textbooks, computer software, materials developed and used in the classroom in connection with graduate studies, articles and other publications developed for use in connection with online and/or in person instruction, as part of the teacher's professional responsibilities with the school system, shall remain the sole property of the Yonkers Public Schools which shall have sole discretion for the use of the material.

Any employee wishing to engage in research, using the school district and/or its records, as the basis for the research must receive prior approval from the Superintendent of Schools, or his/her designee.

Adoption date: July 20, 2011

Review date: February 16, 2022